THE ASSASSIN.

ATTEMPT UPON THE LIFE OF LORD LYTTON.

London, Dec. 12.—Lord Lytton, Viceroy of India, telegraphs from Calcutta that he was fired at this evening on his return from a tour of the Provinces. No one was injured. The shot was fired by a drunken East Indian, who was arrested. The Queen immediately upon receiving the news of the attempt upon Lord Lytton's life, telephoned to him congratulations upon his escape.

Calcutta, Dec. 12.—Interest excitement was created this afternoon by the attempted assassination of the Viceroy. Lord Lytton, His Lordship had just returned to this city by railway from the frontier, and was met and welcomed at the station by a large gathering of his adherents. After the customary greetings were over the party entered their carriages, which were in waiting, and proceeded on their way to the Viceroy's palace. They had gone but a short distance when

A PISTOL-SHOT WAS FIRED

by some person in the crowd which lined the road. The ball passed through the body of the Viceroy, who occupied the front seat of his carriage. The first shot was followed almost immediately by another, which passed coincidentally over the second carriage. The horses were brought to a standstill by the drivers, and the populace gathered near them, increasing the excitement with their shouts and cries for revenge. Everything was at once thrown into a babel-like confusion. The members of Lord Lytton's staff dashed among the crowd to find the assassin. One of them succeeded in arresting

THE MAN WHO FIRED THE SHOT.

He proved to be a native, and was at first pretended to be a considerate individual. He was however by a strong guard and immediately hurried off to prison. No one was injured by the shot, which were aimed too high to do execution.

Immediately after the arrest of the would-be assassin the Viceroy's party proceeded to the police, where they arrived without any further molestation. No attempt at a rescue was made by the native population, although threatening utterances were heard directed at the Viceroy, the English officers, and all British authorities.

Whether this attempt upon the life of the Viceroy is the result of a plot or mere freak of an irresponsible native is not known.

NOT ENTIRELY ASCERTAINED.

It is very generally believed that the former of the act will prove to be the true one.

The city is thoroughly aroused over the event, and there is a very warm discussion of its circumstances and significance both in Government circles and among the people.

The mercantile classes of the native population are loud in the expression of their abhorrence of the murderous act, and the native nobility and gentry are especially strong in their denunciations. But among the English residents the incident has intensified and brought into strong relief.

A LAMENTATION OF ANXIETY.

RECENT FIGHTING.

By Cuba.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—An official telegram from Spain confirms in every particular the account already given in these columns of the battle between the British and Afghan forces on the Ghazni road; but the list of killed and wounded on the British side increases as the reports come in of the different regiments and batteries engaged. The English loss will certainly amount to fifty, and probably more. The entire country is stirred up by the news of the engagement, and it is feared by the commanders that a winter winter campaign is the only way to subdue the Afghans.

London, Dec. 12.—Negotiations have been opened with the ministry to induce them to return to their seats in the Chamber. It is hoped in Government circles that these efforts will be successful.

Government does not intend to press the prosecution of Davitt, Daly, and Kilian.

PARNELL ON THE ASSASSINATION.

DUBLIN, Dec. 12.—The Editor of the Chicago Daily News: "The arrest of Davitt was prompted by a desire of the Government to set rid of him as the chief organizer of the anti-slavery movement. His trial would be intimidated by State prosecution or driven to illegal or violent action. The result, instead of arresting that movement, has been to powerfully stimulate it. Anti-slavery clubs are being organized in every part of the United Kingdom, and subscriptions pour in."

The Nationalists, Repealers, and Home-Rulers are uniting in a common cause in the watchword, "The Home for the People."

The Government, baffled in its attempt to crush the movement, may, in desperation, resolve upon a military and unconstitutional course, and arrest other leaders; but the landlords are cowed, and the Castle is intimidated by the determined action of the people. Threatened evictions are suspended, as a result of the course of the Anti-slavery movement. There are no bidding for estates at sales in the Lancashire Estates Courts, and the tenants are allowed to become owners on easy terms."

The attitude of the people is maintained with redoubled vigor, notwithstanding the snow on the ground, and the anti-slavery movement is growing great. Great suffering is anticipated after Christmas, and the Government trusts that in this way the courage of the masses may be broken.

Swallow's visit to the German Emperor is a strong sympathy with our movement. The French press, as last, is showing appreciation of the true position of affairs here, and send special correspondents to watch the progress of the winter campaign.

The spirit of the people is maintained with redoubled vigor, notwithstanding the snow on the ground, and the anti-slavery movement is growing great. Great suffering is anticipated after Christmas, and the Government trusts that in this way the courage of the masses may be broken.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

MESSRS. S. C. GRIGGS & CO.

Publish To-Day:

THE YOUNGER EDDA,

Sometimes called SIEGMUND'S EDDA, or THE PROSE EDDA. Introduction, Notes, & Full Glossary and Complete Index. By Professor ARTHUR B. ANDERSON, author of "Norse Mythology," etc., etc. 1 Volume. Price, $2.00.

The name "Edda" signifies in Iceland, "great-grandmother," a name used for denoting the famous tales of the past, as it was the aged mistress of the house that customarily related the history of bygone days to her children and grand-children.

THE YOUNGER EDDA may be regarded in the light of a running commentary upon the ELDER EDDA, and is a prose synopsis of the whole as a faith. It contains the systematic Theogony and Cosmogony of our forefathers; their profoundest, sublimest, and best thoughts. The two Eddas may be said to constitute the Odinic Bible. The Elder Edda is the Old Testament; the Younger Edda the New.

This translation by Prof. Anderson, it is believed, will be found more complete and thorough than any other translation yet made in any language, and of deep interest to English and American scholars.

"The Eddas and Sagas," says Dr. Asa, "contain sources of delight and treasures of learning such as no other language but that of Iceland possesses."

"The Eddas abound," says Pliny Miles, "in mythological machinery, an extent quite equal to the writings of Homer and Virgil."

"The Eddas," says B. F. DeCosta, "inspired by a lofty genius, will rank with the writings of Homer and Herodotus while time itself endures."

ANDERSON'S NORSE MYTHOLOGY.

Crown 8vo. Cloth, $2.00. Gilt Edges, $3.00. Half

"The importance of this work hardly be overestimated. For a complete Northern Mythology it is unequalled, and no one has ever done more for the study of the same than the author of this English translation, Arthur's Monthly."

Mathias Jonsenius, the celebrated poet and scholar, has written a work upon exception the most remarkable book ever written upon this subject.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—I notice in today's issue of THE TRIBUNE an article from Mr. James A. Gardner, calling in question Gen. Bean's rank in the line during the late Rebellion. The writer has heard Gen. Bean's rank questioned before, and has done so by stating that he was Lieutenant-Colonel of the line, and I, believe, on the General's own declaration.

Gen. General may not have known that his rank was ever questioned at all; but it has been, and I write this asking a statement from him declaring his rank in the line, and by brevity, I suppose he would give his reputation to set the question at rest.
